Appropriations of State, Commerce and Justice Agencies, However, Above 1945-46

Spending Is Hit Spending Psychology Is Attacked in New Report

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, April 9 (AP)—Demanding elimination of what it called a "deeply entrenched x x x spending psychology" among federal officials, the House Appropriations Committee today recommended deep slashes in state, commerce and justice department funds.

It sent to the House floor a $88,825,758 bill to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the fiscal year starting next July 1. The total represents a 13 per cent cut from budget estimates but a $40,510,759 boost over current-year funds.

By agencies the money was earmarked: $143,024,000 for commerce, $104,783,408 for state, $95,168,250 for justice, and $15,850,100 for the judiciary.

All but a small part of the increase went to the commerce and state departments, those foreign work has been augmented by war's end.

Those two departments, too, took the major budget reductions, 18 per cent in the case of the State Department and 17 per cent for commerce.

The committee allowed no funds at all for the State Department's intelligence unit; chopped its estimate for expanded cultural relations activities almost in half, and sharply pared Commerce Department requests for the Census Bureau and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The committee approved a State Department budget almost five times as large as the last pre-war budget after hearing Secretary of State James Byrnes behind closed doors.

Briefly, Byrnes told the committee in that part of his testimony made public, "we are still concerned with the prevention of future wars and with measures which will improve the social and economic well-being of the peoples of the world to the end that the conditions which lead to war will be removed."

Knuckles Are Rapped
Although the Budget Bureau is not directly affected by the bill, the committee rapped the knuckles of that agency with these words in its formal report to the House:

"It is strongly urged that the Bureau of the Budget devote more time to the over-all coordination of the functions and activities of the various departments and agencies of government generally and of the issuance of directives governing details of administrative management and planning. There is too much duplication of effort in the government, and the Bureau of the Budget * * * is the logical and only organization to undertake this reform."

Official spending generally, the committee had this to say:

"There seems to have developed during the war years what some have termed a 'spending psychology' and the committee is fearful that this spending psychology has become somewhat too deeply entrenched in the minds of the officials responsible for the operation of our federal establishments. It must be eliminated."

In chopping $9,284,778 from the State Department's request for $19,284,778 to expand its information and cultural program to include Europe as well as the western hemisphere, the committee said it was "in accord" with the approach that should be made to attain "greater understanding between the peoples of the world."

Committee Is Not Satisfied
Specifically, the committee said it is "not satisfied" with the types of books proposed to be distributed or already distributed, and feels that any of them "border on ideological and philosophies which never have been considered a part of American life."

The committee recommended discontinuance of the department's magazine "America," currently circulated in Russia, commenting that the magazine is not reaching the right people in Russia.

In explaining its rejection of the entire $4,150,326 fund requested for the department's new intelligence program, the committee said all the proposed functions "can and should be performed by the established units of the department."

The intelligence unit has been under fire of the House Military Committee, which has made what it called "strong representations" against asserted "pro-Soviet leanings" of some of the unit's personnel. However, the Appropriations Committee in eliminating the fund did not mention the military group's action.

The committee said that it was "not satisfied with the extent of investigations being made of em-

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Proposed legislation abolishing the present War and Navy Departments and establishing a single new "Department of Common Defense" was made public today by the Senate Military Committee.

The measure is intended to carry out President Truman's request for unification of the armed forces.

Drafted after months of closed-door sessions, the bill would raise

Who Will Be Chief Becomes Top Poser; Three New Angles

Keresman, Edelmuth, Boss Figure in Speculation Over Police Job; Board to Meet

Speculation centering around Kingston's current $84 question, "Who will be the new police chief?" veered toward a climax yesterday with three developments fanning discussions to a spirited pitch.

Peter J. Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference, reported to be a leading candidate as successor to retiring Chief Phinney, told reporters "It's all news to me."

Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who by this time is thought to have a pretty definite idea who the new chief will be, parried newsmen with the statement that the appointment will be announced at the next regular meeting of the Police Commissioners. The meeting is scheduled April 25.

"There are still several candidates—both in and out of the department—under consideration," the mayor said. "There will be no announcement of the appointment until the regular session of the board."

The third development, and one which observers close to police circles say may be more than just a rumor, centers around Police Lieutenant Ernest J. Boss.

Boss' name has not figured heavily in the speculation of the past few days, but a competent police observer said that Boss' chances of landing the coveted position would not be sold short.

The informant pointed to Police Chief Phinney's high regard for Boss as representing strong support for the latter's candidacy.

Expresses Amazement
Returning from Buffalo where he attended the American Bowling Congress' annual convention, Pete Keresman, one of New York State's most widely known police officials, expressed amazement that his name had been projected into the speculation.

"Nobody has consulted me on the matter," Keresman said, "and the reports must be construed as sheer fabrication."

Keresman said he had at no time sought the job and any consideration he would give toward accepting the position must necessarily be contingent upon the conditions of the job.

The annual convention of the New York State Police Conference is not scheduled until August, whereas the police chief appointment will be announced on May 1. The state secretary pointed out that it would require some time before he could relieve himself of all commitments to the state conference, if the local job were offered him.

Asked point blank if he would accept the position, Keresman replied: "I have always felt I could be of some service to the department."

Other Names Expected
With the date of the police board's meeting slightly more than two weeks away, several names are likely to figure in predictions concerning the appointment.

Two Boys Arrested In Auto Thefts; 10 Vehicles Taken

Boys, 12, 11, Used Local Car in Gas Station Robbery at Cairo Police Say

The arrest of two boys, one 12 and the other 14 years of age, at Brewster on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock is believed to have solved the epidemic of automobile thefts over the week-end in Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Hudson, according to the Catskill police.

Ten automobiles were stolen during that period, and all have been recovered, the Catskill police said.

The two boys are also accused of robbing the gas station of Sam Kozine at Cairo, where the Catskill police say, the boys stole 25 cartons of cigarettes and about $25 in money.

Because of age of the boys their names were not made public, and both are being held on charges of juvenile delinquency for arraignment later in children's court in Catskill.

One of the boys, the younger, is a resident of Catskill, and the 14-year-old boy is from Brooklyn, and had been visiting in Catskill, the police there say.

Stolen Cars Found Here
Two cars stolen in Catskill were recovered today shortly after midnight by Officers George P. Bowers and Henry Messing of the Kingston Police Department.

One of the stolen cars was found parked on Maiden Lane, and the other in the parking grounds of the Stuyvesant Hotel on Fair Street.

The Catskill police were notified of the finding of the two cars.

Exchanged Cars in City
Chief of Police Charles Phinney said today that from information gathered by the local police, the two boys stole a 1941 Ford Tudor auto in Catskill and drove to Kingston Saturday night.

The boys spent the night here and Sunday morning drove the Ford car to Maiden Lane where they parked it, and then stole the 1941 Buick owned by Fred Hoffman of Fair Street, which Mr. Hoffman had parked on Maiden Lane.

Drove Car 130 Miles
The local police say that the Hoffman car was driven about 130 miles, and it is believed that the two boys used the auto in driving to Cairo where they broke into the Kozine gas station.

They then drove back to Catskill where they abandoned the Hoffman car, and stole a 1940 Chevrolet auto, and drove back to Kingston.

The boys parked the Chevrolet in the parking grounds of the Stuyvesant Hotel on Fair Street, and then broke into the garage of Victor Ruzzo at 103 Albany Avenue, where they helped themselves to a 1941 Buick.

Gromyko Is Expected to Press Russian Demand on Council; U. S. Wins Support for Parley

Byrnes Will Meet With Foreign Ministers in Paris in Serious Sessions

Amity Is Sought
U. S. Asks Argentina to Join Pan American Combine

By GRAHAM HOVEY
Washington, April 9 (AP)—The United States threw its diplomatic weight today behind a double-barreled drive to speed peace for much of Europe and harmony for the Americas.

This, in brief, is the situation: Europe—barring unexpected developments, Secretary of State Byrnes will meet in Paris April 25 with Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France in a critical session which may determine when the projected, 21-nation European peace conference can begin.

At stake in turn are final treaties which will permit full restoration of sovereignty to the European countries once allied with Nazi Germany—Italy, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Finland.

America—This country, in effect, is extending the olive branch to Col. Juan D. Peron, Argentina's "strong man" and president-elect. The gesture is a bid to end two years of intermittent bickering and restore hemisphere solidarity, backed up by a Pan-American defense treaty.

Discloses Developments
Byrnes disclosed these new developments at a news conference late yesterday.

He announced that Molotov and Bevin had accepted his suggestion that Big Four foreign ministers meet in Paris some two weeks hence in an effort to break the present deadlock over drafts of proposed peace treaties. Bidault is expected to follow suit.

Then Byrnes issued a statement which said the United States would "welcome" Argentina's participation in the Pan American defense treaty if the Peron government would fulfill its hemisphere pledge to eliminate "Axis influences."

Persons close to Byrnes said he considers the approaching Paris trip one of the most important missions he has ever undertaken. The cabinet officer has said repeatedly he regards peace treaties with the former Axis satellites and the removal of foreign troops as a critically urgent matter.

That is why he has opposed postponing the general European peace conference, scheduled to start in Paris no later than May 1. Yesterday, however, he indicated postponement might be inevitable. He said the foreign ministers would have to set the date for its opening.

Meanwhile, the deputy foreign ministers, who have been working on treaty drafts in London for two months, appeared stalemated on the Yugoslav boundary dispute and disposition of the former Italian colonies.

Those matters apparently will have to be disposed of at the Big Four Paris meeting if they are to be resolved at all.

Esopus Film Canceled
Due to the non-arrival of the World Series films, Town of Esopus Post will be unable to show them after their regular meeting tonight. The films were shown at the high school in Durham, N. C. on April 4, and were supposed to have been routed here in time for the showing tonight. However, the showing will be postponed until the films arrive and suitable announcement will be made of the date. The regular meeting of the post will go on as scheduled, 8:15 p. m. at St. Leo's Hall, Port Ewen.

Sugar Strike Called
Washington, April 9 (AP)—C.I.O. and A.F.L. unions today called a strike effective at midnight Saturday at seven east coast refineries which process 70 percent of the nation's cane sugar. The unions said in a statement they had reached an impasse in negotiations with refining companies. They said the companies had refused to accept as binding recommendations of a fact-finding panel appointed by Secretary of Labor Schwelbenbach.

Hurley's Firemen Present Truck to Township District 47 Years in Area

Bloomington Also Will Get New Apparatus; Hurley Gets Army Surplus

Members of the Hurley Fire Company gave practical proof of their public spirit and interest in matters fireman Monday night when they took it upon themselves to finance the purchase of a fire truck and pumper for the benefit of the Hurley fire district.

The truck, which is Army surplus equipment, is an International truck and carries a 500 gallon LaFrance pump and a 50 gallon booster tank. The cost is around $1,800, much lower than the original cost price.

The company financed the purchase through its treasury balance and a loan plus contributions of some $900 from individual members and the fire district. They plan various activities to repay the loans and contributions.

The truck will be turned over for use of the fire district and will be maintained by the district commissioners.

Bloomington to Buy Pumper
The Bloomington Fire Department is planning to secure a new piece of equipment—a 200 gallon pump mounted on a Chevrolet chassis—but it will probably be the middle of the summer before it can be secured.

Some had received the impression that a new pumper recently shown by C. F. Doty was the expected piece of equipment. However, that was a new 750 gallon Sanford pumper which Mr. Doty was showing to members of the Bloomington fire department before delivering it to Stockport.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 9 (AP)—Human leukemia, dread cancerous condition of the blood which causes excessive multiplication of the white corpuscles, is the next target of a war-developed poison gas which has been used successfully in animal experiments.

Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt of the Chemical Warfare Service disclosed this yesterday at a news conference during the 109th meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Earlier Secretary of War Patterson revealed that war research on chemical and bacteriological weapons had opened up new lines of humanitarian attacks against certain forms of cancer, ptomaine poisoning, a serious eye disease and other ills confronting animal and plant life.

Waitt, describing the development of a class of war gases known as "nitrogen mustards," asserted:

"It was found that one of the nitrogen mustard compounds which we were going to use in war, if called upon, would also knock out leukemia in mice."

He said the experimental researches against blood cancer, carried on by Dr. Cornelius

Stiff American-Soviet Fight Is Anticipated Over Issue of Iranian Case

Iranians Pack
Delegation Will Quit New York Today for Washington

New York, April 9 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko was expected today to return immediately to United Nations Security Council meetings in order to press Russia's demand for complete dismissal of the Iranian case.

Barring one possibility, a stiff Soviet-American fight appears likely to result over this issue. Secretary of State Byrnes indicated that the United States is opposed to reopening the Iranian case until May 6, the deadline by which all Soviet troops are supposed to be out of Iran. Some officials said the British hold a similar view.

The possibility was seen that Iran might agree with Russia's demand. Such a development would mean that the two governments most concerned in the controversy considered it a closed book as far as the council goes. That might weaken any argument the United States could make for keeping it open for consideration May 6.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala has asked Premier Ahmed Qavam at Tehran for instructions. News dispatches from Tehran presented apparently divergent views. One unidentified cabinet member said Qavam would agree to dismissal. But Prince Mozaffar Firooz, Iranian propaganda minister, said it was "entirely a Security Council matter."

At Ala's hotel, a spokesman said the entire Iranian delegation was packing to leave for Washington some time today. He said Ala would not attend the afternoon meeting of the Security Council.

The spokesman refused to discuss the situation further.

Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange informed Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, that within the next few days he would ask that a "situation * * * due to international frictions resulting from the existence and activities of the Franco regime in Spain" be placed on the agenda of the Security Council.

The United Nations press office, in announcing the Polish note, said the brief letter was received last night at Lie's headquarters.

The Polish note followed previous warnings from Poland that he would seek to have the United Nations take action against the Spanish government.

Meet at 3 p. m.
The council was scheduled to meet today (3 p. m., E.S.T.) to pass upon a set of permanent rules by which it may govern its proceedings in the future. The rules were drawn up by a committee of experts representing all 11 members, and are considered by delegates to be non-controversial. United Nations officials said there seemed no question that Gromyko would attend the session—his first since he walked out in protest against discussing the Iranian case two weeks ago.

Whether he would insist upon bringing up the demand for dismissing the Iranian case or wait until tomorrow was uncertain, but some authorities known to be familiar with his views believed he would not object to one day's delay.

The official U. N. English translation of Gromyko's demand was released last night—the text having originally been broadcast Sunday by Moscow. The letter said that Russia and Iran had agreed on a means of settling their affairs, including removal of Soviet troops from Iranian soil. It denied that anything in the situation was a menace to international peace and declared that the case, on the agenda until May 6, the council took an "incorrect and illegal" action.

"For the above mentioned reasons," the letter said, "the Soviet government insists that the Iranian question should be removed from the agenda of the Security Council."

Move Was Unexpected
The Russian move was unexpected and other council members, including the American delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., had to ask instructions of their governments. At a news conference in Washington late yesterday Secretary Byrnes did not disclose what his instructions had been given Stettinius.

The first member of the council to comment directly on the Russian move was Dr. Leao Veloso of Brazil, who said he opposed it. He declared that "it is logically up to Iran and not Russia" to ask that the case be disposed of.

Spending Is Hit

Spending Psychology Is Attacked in New Report

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, April 9 (AP)—Demanding elimination of what it called a "deeply entrenched x x x spending psychology" among federal officials, the House Appropriations Committee today recommended deep slashes in state, commerce and justice department budgets.

It went to the House floor a $88,200,000 bill to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the fiscal year starting next July 1. The total represents a 13 per cent cut over current year funds.

By agencies the money was earmarked: $148,024,000 for commerce, $104,783,408 for state, $85,168,250 for justice, and $13,850,100 for the judiciary.

All but a small part of the increase went to the commerce and state departments, whose foreign work has been augmented by war's end.

Those two departments, too, took the major budget reductions, 18 per cent in the case of the State Department and 17 per cent for commerce.

The committee allowed no funds at all for the State Department's separate intelligence unit; chopped its estimate for expanded cultural relations activities almost in half, and sharply pared Commerce Department requests for the Census Bureau and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The committee approved a State Department budget almost five times as large as the last pre-war budget after hearing Secretary of State James Byrnes behind closed doors.

Briefly, Byrnes told the committee in that part of his testimony made public, "we are still concerned with the prevention of future wars and with measures which will improve the social and economic well-being of the peoples of the world and that the conditions which lead to war will be removed."

Knuckles Are Rapped

Although the Budget Bureau is directly affected by the bill, the committee rapped the knuckles of that agency with these words in its formal report to the House:

"It is strongly urged that the bureau of the budget devote more time to the over-all coordination of the functions and activities of the various departments and agencies of government generally and less to the issuance of directives regarding details of administrative management and planning. There is too much duplication of effort between the bureau of the budget, the government, and the Bureau of the Budget. * * * is the logical and only organization to undertake this reform."

Of federal spending generally, the committee had this to say:

"There seems to have developed during the war years, what some have termed 'a spending psychology' and the committee is fearful that this spending psychology has become somewhat too deeply entrenched in the minds of the officials responsible for the operation of our federal establishments. It must be eliminated."

In chipping $9,284,778 from the State Department's request for $18,284,778 to expand its information and cultural program to include Europe as well as the western hemisphere, the committee said in accord "as to the approach that should be made to attain a greater understanding between the peoples of the world."

Committee Is Not Satisfied

Specifically, the committee said it is "not satisfied" with the types of books proposed to be distributed or already distributed, and feels that many of them "border on ideologies and philosophies which have been considered a part of American life."

The committee recommended discontinuance of the department's magazine "America," currently circulated in Russia, commenting that the magazine is not reaching the Russian people in Russia.

In warning its rejection of the $4,150,326 fund requested for the department's new intelligence program, the committee said the proposed functions "can and should be performed by the established units of the department."

The intelligence unit has been under fire of the House Military Committee, which has made what it called "strong representations" against "pro-Soviet leanings" of some of the unit's personnel. However, the Appropriations Committee in eliminating the fund did not mention the military intelligence action.

The committee said that it was "not satisfied with the extent of investigations being made of em-

Keresman, Edelmuth, Boss Figure in Speculation Over Police Job; Board to Meet

Speculation centering around Kingston's current $54 question, "Who will be the new police chief?" veered toward a climax yesterday with three developments fanning discussions to a spirited pitch.

Peter J. Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference, reported to be a leading candidate as successor to retiring Chief Phinney, told reporters "It's all news to me."

Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who by this time is thought to have a pretty definite idea who the new chief will be, parried newsmen with the statement that the appointment will be announced at the next regular meeting of the Police Commissioners. The meeting is scheduled April 25.

"There are still several candidates—both in and out of the department—under consideration," the mayor said. "There will be no announcement of the appointment until the regular session of the board."

The third development, and one which observers close to police circles say may be more than just a rumor, centers around Police Lieutenant Ernest J. Boss.

Heavily in the speculation of the past few days, but a competent police observer said that Boss' chances of landing the coveted position should not be sold short. The informant pointed to Police Chief Phinney's high regard for Boss as representing strong support for the latter's candidacy.

Expresses Amazement

Returning from Buffalo where he attended the American Bowling Congress' annual convention, Pete Keresman, one of New York State's most widely known police officials, expressed amazement that his name had been projected into the speculation.

"Nobody has consulted me on the matter," Keresman said, "and the reports must be construed as sheer fabrication."

Keresman said he had at no time sought the job and any consideration he would give toward accepting the position must necessarily be contingent upon the conditions of the job.

Asked point blank if he would accept the position, Keresman replied:

"I have always felt I could be of some service to the department."

With the date of the police board's meeting slightly more than two weeks away, several names are likely to figure in predictions concerning the appointment.

Two Boys Arrested In Auto Thefts; 10 Vehicles Taken

Boys, 12, 11, Used Local Car in Gas Station Robbery at Cairo Police Say

The arrest of two boys, one 12 and the other 14 years of age, at Brewster on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock is believed to have solved the epidemic of automobile thefts over the week-end in Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Hudson, according to the Catskill Police.

Ten automobiles were stolen during that period, and all have been recovered, the Catskill police said.

The two boys are also accused of robbing the gas station of Sam Kozine at Cairo, where the Catskill police say, the boys stole 25 cartons of cigarettes and about $25 in money.

Because of age of the boys their names were not made public, and both are being held on charges of juvenile delinquency for arraignment later in children's court in Catskill.

One of the boys, the younger, is a resident of Catskill, and the 14-year-old boy is from Brooklyn, and had been visiting in Catskill, the police there say.

Stolen Cars Found Here

Two cars stolen in Catskill were recovered today shortly after midnight by Officers George P. Bowers and Henry Messing of the Kingston Police Department.

One of the stolen cars was found parked on Maiden Lane, and the other in the parking grounds of the Stuyvesant Hotel on Fair Street.

The Catskill police were notified of the finding of the two cars.

Exchanged Cars in City

Chief of Police Charles Phinney said today that from information gathered by the local police the two boys stole a 1941 Ford Tudor auto in Catskill and drove to Kingston Saturday night.

The boys spent the night here and Sunday morning drove the Ford car to Maiden Lane where they parked it, and then stole the 1941 Buick owned by Fred Hoffman of Fair Street, which Mr. Hoffman had parked on Maiden Lane.

Drove Car 130 Miles

The local police say that the Hoffman car was driven about 130 miles, and it is believed that the two boys used the auto in driving to Cairo where they broke into the Kozine gas station.

They then drove back to Catskill where they abandoned the Hoffman car, and stole a 1940 Chevrolet auto, and drove back to Kingston.

The boys parked the Chevrolet in the parking grounds of the Stuyvesant Hotel on Fair Street, and then broke into the garage of Victor Russo at 103 Albany Avenue, where they help d themselves

Hurley's Firemen Present Truck to Township District

Bloomington Also Will Get New Apparatus; Hurley Gets Army Surplus

Members of the Hurley Fire Company gave practical proof of their public spirit and interest in matters firemanic Monday night when they took it upon themselves to finance the purchase of a fire truck and pumper for the benefit of the Hurley fire district.

The truck, which is Army surplus equipment, is an International truck and carries a 500 gallon LaFrance pump and a 50 gallon booster tank. The cost is around $1,800, much lower than the original cost price.

The company financed the purchase through its treasury balance and a loan plus contributions of some $900 from individual members and the fire district. They plan various activities to repay the loans and contributions.

The truck will be turned over for use of the fire district and will be maintained by the district commissioners.

Bloomington to Buy Pumper

The Bloomington Fire Department is planning to secure a new piece of equipment—a 200 gallon pump mounted on a Chevrolet chassis—but it will probably be the middle of the summer before it can be secured.

Some had received the impression that a new pumper recently shown by C. F. Doty was the expected piece of equipment. However, that was a new 750 gallon Sanford pumper which Mr. Doty was showing to members of the Bloomington fire department before delivering it to Stockport.

Poison Gas Might Become Effective Foe of Leukemia

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
Atlantic City, N. J., April 9 (AP)—Human leukemia, dread cancerous condition of the blood which causes excessive multiplication of the white corpuscles, is the next target of a war-developed poison gas which has been used successfully in animal experiments.

Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt of the Chemical Warfare Service disclosed this yesterday at a news conference during the 109th meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Earlier Secretary of War Patterson revealed that war research on chemical and bacteriological weapons had opened up new lines of humanitarian attacks against certain forms of cancer, ptomaine poisoning, a serious eye disease and other ill effects confronting animal and plant life.

Waitt, describing the development of a class of war gases known as "nitrogen mustards," asserted:

"It was found that one of the nitrogen mustard compounds which we were going to use in war, if called upon, would also knock out leukemia in mice."

He said the experimental researches against blood cancer, carried on by Dr. Cornelius

Stiff American-Soviet Fight Is Anticipated Over Issue of Iranian Case

Delegation Will Quit New York Today for Washington

New York, April 9 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko was expected today to return immediately to United Nations Security Council meetings in order to press Russia's demand for complete dismissal of the Iranian case.

Barring one possibility, a stiff Soviet-American fight appears likely to result over this issue. Secretary of State Byrnes indicated that the United States is opposed to reopening the Iranian case until May 6, the deadline by which all Soviet troops are supposed to be out of Iran. Some officials said the British hold a similar view.

The possibility was seen that Iran might agree with Russia's demand. Such a development would mean that the two governments most concerned in the controversy considered it a closed book as far as the council goes. That might weaken any argument the United States could make for keeping it open for consideration May 6.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala has asked Premier Ahmad Qavam at Tehran for instructions. News dispatches from Tehran presented apparently conflicting views. One unidentified cabinet member said Qavam would agree to dismissal. But Prince Mozaffar Firouz, Iranian propaganda minister, said it was "entirely a Security Council matter."

At Ala's hotel, a spokesman said the entire Iranian delegation was packing to leave for Washington some time today. He said Ala would not attend the afternoon meeting of the Security Council.

The spokesman refused to discuss the situation further.

Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange informed Trygvn Lie, United Nations secretary general, that within the next few days he would ask that a "situation" be due to international frictions resulting from the existence and activities of the Franco regime in Spain be placed on the agenda of the Security Council.

The United Nations press office, in announcing the Polish notice, said the brief letter was received last night at Lie's headquarters.

The Polish note followed previous advice from Poland that she would seek to have the United Nations take action against the Spanish government.

Meet at 3 p. m.

The council was scheduled to meet today (3 p. m., E.S.T.) to pass upon a set of permanent rules by which it may govern its proceedings in the future. The rules were drawn up by a committee of experts representing all 11 members, and are considered by delegates to be non-controversial. United Nations officials said there seemed no question that Gromyko would attend the session—his first since he walked out in protest against discussing the Iranian case two weeks ago.

Whether he would insist upon bringing up the demand for dismissing the Iranian case or wait until tomorrow was uncertain, but some authorities known to be familiar with his views believed he would not object to one day's delay.

The official U. N. English translation of Gromyko's demand was released last night—the text having originally been broadcast Sunday by Moscow. The letter said that Russia and Iran had agreed on a means of settling their affairs, including removal of Soviet troops from Iranian soil. It denied that anything in the situation was a menace to international peace and declared that in deciding last week to keep the case on the agenda until May 6, the council took an "incorrect and illegal" action.

"For the above mentioned reasons," the letter said, "the Soviet government insists that the Iranian question should be removed from the agenda of the Security Council."

Move Was Unexpected

The Russian move was unexpected and other council members, including the American delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., had to ask instructions of their governments. At a news conference in Washington late yesterday Secretary Byrnes did not disclose what if any instructions had been given Stettinius.

The first member of the council to comment directly on the Russian move was Dr. Leao Veloso of Brazil, who said he opposed it. He declared that "it is logically up to Iran and not Russia" to ask that the case be disposed of.

Kiwanis Club Is To Be X-rayed on Wednesday Here

TB Fight Is Being Waged Throughout Ulster by County Health Association

The program of education against tuberculosis, supplemented by mass chest X-rays, sponsored by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, has the endorsement of the Kiwanis Club, members of which will report at the Health Center on East O'Reilly street, Wednesday at 8 p. m., to be X-rayed along with individuals who have requested the service.

Activity to combat tuberculosis is in full swing throughout Ulster county, Miss Katherine Murphy, R. N., secretary of the T.B. and Health Association has announced, with practically all of its towns and communities taking part in the X-ray and educational program carried on to fight the disease.

Miss Murphy has reported that the teachers in Kingston schools and personnel of the education department are 100 per cent tested. Clinics are held for the school children and their parents. In cases where positive signs are shown, action is taken to prevent more serious stages. Parents and their children, who have been listed as positive, are urged to report to the clinics for further checks.

This morning, employees of Van Slyke & Horton cigar factory were X-rayed. Other industrial workers scheduled to take the test today were those of the Baltz pajama factory, a number who had requested individual attention and members of the Lions and Rotary clubs.

Monday, in Ellenville, 200 persons were tested, including teachers and senior students of the high school and personnel of the Ulster Knife Works.

Clinic expenses are defrayed from funds raised during the Christmas TB Seal sale, and by payments made by industrial plants whose workers are examined.

Meat Packers Say Black Market Is Out of Control

Institute President Says Price System Has Broken Down in Industry

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Representatives of major meat packers asserted today the black market in meat is out of control, the price system in the industry has broken down, and the "only remedy" is removal of price controls.

Wesley Hardenbergh, president of the American Meat Institute, led off the attack on O.P.A. policies before the Senate Agriculture Committee and was backed up by other packers from Illinois, Montana and California.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) asked Hardenbergh whether he thought "the consumers would get a fair shake" if Congress removed subsidies and abolished price control in the industry. Hardenbergh said he certainly did.

"This industry's very existence is threatened by the wasteful, scandalous, widespread and flagrant black market which has been made possible by the price control act," Hardenbergh asserted.

Hardenbergh said the number of meat packing establishments had leaped from 1,492 in 1939 to 26,665 last July. Of these, he said only 12,168 had filed claims for subsidy payments up to last February.

"Apparently 14,500 slaughterers were able to survive without applying for subsidies even though the subsidy averages about $2.50 per head on cattle and $4.25 on hogs," he said. "The conclusion is obvious."

Hardenbergh said all it took to become a black market slaughterer was "a tree, a rope, a knife and a truck." He declared that such slaughterers wasted hides, bones, tallow, greases and other items which a legitimate packer would save.

"Certainly," he said, "the farmer currently is receiving little of the tremendous black market profit represented by the $1,250,000 overcharge paid for meat by consumers."

Last Pensioner of War In 1812 Dies in Oregon

The National Tribune, Washington, D. C., notes the death March 12 in a Dallas, Oregon, hospital of Mrs. Esther Ann Morgan, 89, America's last pensioner from the War of 1812. Mrs. Morgan's father, John Hill, and three uncles fought with the New York militia during the 1812 conflict.

Partially blind, Mrs. Morgan was granted a $20 a month pension in 1927, by special Act of Congress. Mrs. Morgan's father was 70 years old at the time of her birth March 9, 1857, in Des Moines county, Iowa. She received nationwide publicity because of her unique position as the only surviving pensioner of the War of 1812, which ended 131 years ago.

Mrs. Morgan's father and his three brothers, Jedediah, Eben and Ludlow, received no pay for their services during the war and were required to supply their own clothing and equipment. Her father never received any pension, but was given three land grants in Missouri for his war services. Mrs. Morgan's grandfather, Jedediah Hill, fought in the Revolutionary War.

'Y' Goal Is Set At $16,210; Four Divisions Listed

Annual Fund Drive Will Begin Soon; Next Meeting Will Be April 15

The goal for the Y.M.C.A.'s annual Fund Drive has been set at $16,210, Dwight McEntee, Sr., general chairman, announced at last night's meeting with commanders of the four divisions that will conduct the campaign.

Patterned after the Army's organizational setup, the subscription drive will feature four divisions—representing each branch of the service—headed by a divisional commander.

Sherwood Davis has been appointed commander of the Army Division; Ray Mayone, Marine Division; N. Jansen Fowler, Navy; and Clarence Rowland, Jr., Air Corps. These four men represent their branch of service during World War II.

Harry Gray, Myron Hopper and Herbert V. Darrow represented ward leaders at last night's first general committee meeting. The complete list of ward leaders will be announced at the next general session, scheduled on Monday, April 15, at 7 p. m.

Recalling last year's highly successful campaign, General Chairman McEntee told the group that the Y.M.C.A. still has an obligation—to improve and ready the building for returning servicemen. He challenged the men to put through this campaign in order to hire a full time boys' program director.

During the war, Mr. McEntee said, the boys had endured sacrifices in the loss of their rooms and program leader.

George Herbert DeKay, director of the Y. M. C. A. and president of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, urged the commanders to build a strong organization to achieve the 1946 goal. He outlined the number of captains and workers that would be required in each ward and expressed complete confidence that the task could be accomplished if volunteer workers would assist the division commanders.

Harold Clayton explained the immediate needs of the boys. He said that the sharp curtailment of the boys' program during the war imposed upon the committee an obligation to turn full attention to the boys in the post-war period. The boys' rooms needed repairs, Clayton said, and should be thrown open to all boys of the city. He stressed the important role the Y. M. C. A. can play in curbing juvenile delinquency.

Thomas Bohan, vice-commander of the Ulster County American Legion, reminded the committee of the splendid work the Y. M. C. A. has been doing for the man in uniform and the returning veteran.

"The Y," Mr. Bohan said, "was the only place where the veteran could come and participate in physical activities free of charge. The Y was always open to them. Other organizations were doing all they could, but none had facilities and equipments such as the Y. M. C. A."

Kiwanis Club Is To Be X-rayed on Wednesday Here

TB Fight Is Being Waged Throughout Ulster by County Health Association

The program of education against tuberculosis, supplemented by mass chest X-rays, sponsored by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, has the endorsement of the Kiwanis Club, members of which will report at the Health Center on East O'Reilly street, Wednesday at 8 p. m., to be X-rayed along with individuals who have requested the service.

Activity to combat tuberculosis is in full swing throughout Ulster county, Miss Katherine Murphy, R. N., secretary of the T. B. and Health Association has announced, with practically all of its town and communities taking part in the X-ray and educational program carried on to fight the disease.

Miss Murphy has reported that the teachers in Kingston schools and personnel of the education department are 100 per cent tested. Clinics are held for the school children and their parents. In shown, action is taken to prevent tuberculosis from developing into more serious stages. Parents and their children, who have been listed as positive, are urged to report to the clinics for further checks.

This morning, employees of Van Slyke & Horton cigar factory were X-rayed. Other industrial workers scheduled to take the test today were those of the Balz pajama factory, a number who had requested individual attention and members of the Lions and Rotary clubs.

Monday, in Ellenville, 200 persons were tested, including teachers and senior students of the high school and personnel of the Ulster Knife Works.

Clinic expenses are defrayed from funds raised during the Christmas TB Seal sale, and by payments made by industrial plants, whose workers are examined.

Meat Packers Say Black Market Is Out of Control

Institute President Says Price System Has Broken Down in Industry

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Representatives of major meat packers asserted today the black market in meat is out of control, the price system in the industry has broken down, and the "only remedy" is removal of price controls.

Wesley Hardenbergh, president of the American Meat Institute, led off the attack on O. P. A. policies before the Senate Agriculture Committee and was backed up by other packers from Illinois, Montana and California.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) asked Hardenbergh whether he thought "the consumers would get a fair shake" if Congress removed subsidies and abolished price control in the industry. Hardenbergh said he certainly did.

"This industry's very existence is threatened by the wasteful, scandalous, widespread and flagrant black market which has been made possible by the price control act," Hardenbergh asserted.

Hardenbergh said the number of meat packing establishments had leaped from 1,492 in 1939 to 26,665 last July. Of these, he said only 12,165 had filed claims for subsidy payments up to last February.

"Apparently 14,500 slaughterers were able to survive without applying for subsidies even though the subsidies average about $2.25 per head on cattle and $4.25 on hogs," he said. "The conclusion is obvious."

Hardenbergh said all it took to become a black market slaughterer was "a trip, a knife and a truck." He declared that such slaughterers wasted hides, bones, tallow, greases and other items which a legitimate packer would save.

"Certainly," he said, "the farmer currently is receiving little of the tremendous black market profit represented by the $125,000,000 overcharge paid for meat by consumers."

PUBLIC HEARING

The public will have an opportunity tonight to express its opinion on the installation of parking meters in the business sections of the city. The Traffic Control Committee of the Common Council will hold a public hearing on the question at 8 o'clock in the council chambers of the city hall.

Public hearings are designed to obtain reactions of the people to propositions affecting them. Here is a chance for an expression of your views.

When the committee is most interested in determining is what the public, or more specifically, the shopping public, thinks about the meters. It is hoped that the hearing will attract representatives of the public in sufficient numbers to get a comprehensive expression of opinion.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT

Together with the suggested campaign against speeding, there also should be an all-out drive to curb flagrant violations of traffic signs and signals in this city.

Now is the time to do it, before someone is killed or seriously injured.

The statutes apply to all motorists and one way to stop this threat to life and limb is strict enforcement.

The Newburgh News editorially states that the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce should cooperate with the Kingston C. of C. in its efforts to secure express service on the West Shore Railroad. Such an express would be well patronized, it is believed.

MAGIC WEAPONS

The most important minerals in the world are now Uranium and Thorium. They are worth far more than gold or any of the other metals—not so much for their intrinsic worth as for their military value. They are the metals from which the atomic bombs are made, and therefore cherished according to their accepted merits. No other known metals are capable of wreaking so much destruction. From present indications, if our world or any considerable parts of it are to be destroyed by human enterprise, they are the weapons that will do it. They won our last war for us, and have been respected and cherished accordingly.

There are different viewpoints about these tremendous weapons, now being stored secretly away in great quantities by American enterprise. Man, as is well known, is a fighting animal, and in case of peril he is generally willing to use what comes to his hand for defense. The Bomb is cherished accordingly, and will doubtless continue in its present high esteem until such time as man becomes civilized enough not to require such dreadful instruments.

Who would ever have expected an epoch-making event like the opening of the United Nations to take place in the Bronx?

TYPICAL NAZI

Another typical Nazi is revealed in the career of Dr. Karl Haushofer, whose theories of world politics profoundly influenced Hitler. In 1944, when Haushofer's life and the lives of other members of his family were threatened because he was suspected of disloyalty, he saved himself. How? By denouncing his own son to the Gestapo as having been implicated in the bomb plot against Hitler.

The more Nazis are examined, the more alike they appear. And the more despicable.

It is becoming too easy again to grow pessimistic about this foolish world. At the worst, it deserves another chance.

COULD IT BE TRUE?

New fashions in make-up decree the "child-like face with eyes freshly glowing, skin as clean and clear as a mountain stream." ### THAT REPUBLICAN CHAIRMANSHIP

Funny thing! Every organization in this country may elect its own president or chairman, or whatever you call him, except the Republican party. Whenever the Republicans want to organize themselves, all the outsiders butt in to tell them what to do. Even Mr. Truman who is a Democrat tells the Republicans what he thinks about their going off on their own to pick a chairman. Maybe the Democrats ought to pick the Republican chairman. Or maybe they ought to clear it with Sidney.

There were three main Republican candidates for their chairman of the National Committee, John W. Hanes, a reputable banker, a convert from the Democratic party, a Southerner, a former Treasury official and an erstwhile supporter of Wendell Willkie. There can be nothing against John Hanes except that he did not have enough votes, which was natural as he never really belonged. Some of the Republicans suspected him of supporting Harold Stassen for the presidency and they accordingly voted against him, not because they do not like Hanes but because they do not want Stassen. For, as curious as it may be to New Deal columnists and such, Harold Stassen is more popular among those whose business it is to re-elect a Democrat than among those who wish to elect a Republican.

Another candidate was former Senator John A. Danaher of Connecticut, who is a very firm and competent Republican and a close follower of Governor Dewey of New York. Had Senator Danaher been elected to the Republican chairmanship, he would have been razed as violently as was Mr. Reece who was actually chosen. Mr. Danaher would have been accused of being a slave of Governor Dewey, which would have been unfair as Danaher got along in Connecticut before he became associated with Mr. Dewey's fortunes. Actually, he has been with the Republican National Committee under its former chairman, Herbert Brownell, and is generally well regarded.

B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee has for many years been a popular figure among Republicans. After all, it is strictly their business whom they choose to favor. He has been a member of Congress for a prolonged period and a curiously unique one, a Republican from Tennessee. He has naturally been on terms of friendship with Republican leaders, including Senator Robert Taft. He is not a New Dealer, a normal condition among Republicans. He was never a follower of Wendell Willkie, which is not unnatural—Willkie, a Democrat, having been over on the Republicans by the ingenuities of a group of New York business men and bankers, most of whom would like to continue to manage the United States by proxy.

The only sour note came from Harold Stassen, who seems to be suffering from an anxiety complex. Not being a member of the National Committee, Stassen could not attend the meeting and although he said that while differing with Reece, he would help him in the 1946 congressional campaign, many Republicans wondered who asked him.

Politics is a profession in the United States and such citizens as serve on the Republican or Democratic National Committee are professional leaders and gentlemen who devote themselves constantly to the business of electing presidents, senators, congressmen, governors and such. They have an extraordinarily keen insight into prospects and possibilities. They had little faith in 1936 and 1940 that a Republican could be elected President, no matter what they said in public. In 1944, they calculated that they might have a chance, but not too sure.

The Republicans now believe that in spite of P.A.C. and Sidney Hillman, they will carry the House of Representatives in 1946 and possibly the presidency in 1948. They are not worried about the 1946 principally. They are not worried about the presidency, which is too far off. It was for this reason that they chose, to the apparent annoyance of the New Dealers, a Republican regular—one who knows elections well, one who has managed to have himself elected often.

There is a little more to it than that. The chairman of the Republican National Committee does not select the Republican candidate for President. He is lucky if he is on speaking terms with the nominee when he is chosen.

VETERANS NEED HELP

I believe most of us who watched the progress of World War I, the examination of recruits; the training before going overseas, the equipment with which to attack and defend; the field, camp, and base hospitals; the care of returned patients; the plans for rehabilitation, believe that all these things were better done in World War II. Yet, notwithstanding all that was done and is being done for the sick and the well we learn that "one out of five returning veterans of World War II experiences real trouble in adjusting himself to civilian life." We learn this from a study made in a number of cities which appears in Survey Monthly, national journal of social work as a special edition entitled "From Veteran to Civilian." The study was made by Bradley Buell and Reginald Robinson, financed by the Grant Foundation.

Now if one in five is known to experience difficulty in adjusting himself there may be many others who are experiencing difficulty but because of circumstances and environment their difficulties are not known to others.

Wherein do the difficulties lie which interfere with the veteran's adjustment to civilian life? The survey shows the trouble is due to problems of family, emotional instability, money, health, leisure time. Many of us who are health minded will feel that if the veteran's health can be maintained at a high level he will be better able to fight his difficulties and meet his problems, but even good health will find it difficult when there is sickness in the home, poor housing, lack of money, insecurity of the job.

What can and should be done for these 1 in 5 veterans who are finding it difficult to adjust themselves?

Few if any of them want charity or bonuses but what they do want is security, the object for which they fought, bled and died.

The governments are, or try to be, generous in helping the veteran to find himself—training for trades and professions—but more than this is needed.

Among the recommendations of the report are that communities organize their forces to see that this 1 in 5 gets the "break" he needs to enable him to adjust himself to civilian life and be the asset to the community that he really can be.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The installation of parking meters in Kingston has again become a live question, and the matter is now in the hands of the traffic control committee of the Common Council.

Those who favor parking meters claim it will increase the revenue received by the city, after the machines are paid for, and will relieve congestion of traffic, especially in the uptown business district.

It was only a few years ago, as I recall it, that a plan to relieve congestion on Wall street, between Main and North Front streets, was placed in operation by permitting only one-way traffic on those two blocks of Wall street.

That was the year I was driving an automobile and I found it a pleasure to drive through Wall street, with traffic moving in but one direction, and with plenty of opportunity to park the car on either side of the street.

However, the plan was abandoned at the request, I believe of the merchants.

From the standpoint of the automobilist it would seem a desirable plan to again have Wall street a one-way street from Main to North Front street, as well as Fair street, between the same points.

I doubt very much, however, if that plan will ever materialize owing to opposition on the part of some of the business men who believe it would hurt trade.

The fire board on April 27, 1927, appointed George D. Matthews of Union Hose Co., and Edward J. Noble of Rescue Hook and Ladder Company as members of the paid department. Both men assumed their duties on June 1 of that year.

The fire board at the meeting also appointed Dr. Chester B. Van Gasbeken to serve as physician of the paid fire department.

Joseph L. Moore died on April 25, 1927, in his home on Cedar street. Mr. Moore for a number of years was employed as a gate-man at the Broadway railroad crossing.

The Rev. Henry Smith died in his home in Rifton on May 2, 1927. He was 85 years of age. He was a son of William Smith, who for years served as secretary of the Ulster County Bible Society and the Ulster County Sunday School Association.

At his death, his son, the Rev. Mr. Smith, took over the duties with the two associations, and served until his death.

Albert W. Van Tassel died in his home on St. James street on April 22, 1927. He was a brother of the late Sheriff William Thomas Van Tassel, and served as under sheriff during his brother's administration of the office of sheriff.

Mr. Van Tassel for a number of years was employed by the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co., and in later years was employed in the purchasing department of the Cornell Steamboat Co.

Fraternally he was a member of Kingston Lodge of Masons. He was also an active member of the First Dutch Reformed Church.

Germans Are Taken Ill

Liverpool, Eng., April 8 (AP)—Nearly 100 German prisoners of war became violently ill today after eating soap and drinking Deisel oil. Authorities said the men had heard rumors that they would be turned over to the Russians or be assigned to work in the coal mines. All recovered. They were aboard the U. S. steamer Froberg Victory, carrying them from the United States to work on English farms.

The superstition that a broken mirror brings bad luck came from the fact that a shadow or reflection once was considered part of the soul.

President Truman Compressed U. S. Foreign Policy Into Single Paragraph in His Chicago Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 9—Seldom has anyone in the United States government expressed American policy toward the rest of the world in a single paragraph. President Truman has just done it in his Chicago speech. But it is doubtful whether many who read that particular excerpt realized that it is America's foreign policy reduced to a simple statement that carries far-reaching significance. Mr. Truman said:

"We recognize that the Soviet Union, the British Commonwealth, and other nations have important interests in the Far East. In return we expect recognition by them that we also have an interest in maintaining peace and security in that area. We expect understanding on their part that our objectives are dedicated to the pursuit of peace; and we shall expect them to pursue the same objectives."

The words "Near East" could be substituted, as could the word "Europe," in the above paragraph, and American policy would be the same. What the President in effect is that nations may think they have "interests" or "spheres of influence" in certain areas but the moment these come in conflict with the interests of other nations, the United States feels, under the United Nations charter, an obligation to see that such differences do not produce the frictions that lead to war.

What may not be fully understood outside the United States is that this country is committed to full participation in world affairs and cannot escape responsibility for settlements or disputes which, if allowed to go unsettled, could conceivably threaten the peace of the world.

Before World War 2, America's policy was to limit herself almost entirely to direct help in disputes that might arise over questions in this hemisphere, whether the disputants were Pan-American states or European or Asiatic countries. The interest of the United States in European disputes, on the other hand, was casual and only when American rights were attacked was it considered within the domain of American policy. This did not mean that in the United States remained silent, for there were occasions when our "good offices" were extended to prevent war and bring about a peaceful solution.

The situation is wholly different now and the carefully phrased words of the President's speech reveal what a change has come since the late President Roosevelt made his historic commitment at the Yalta conference.

The United States today manifests an active interest in any dispute in any portion of the world and in any situation which would possibly bring about the kind of friction which might involve the world in war.

"No country, great or small," said the President in his Chicago speech, "has legitimate interests in the Near and Middle East which cannot be reconciled with the interests of other nations through the United Nations. The United Nations have a right to assist that the sovereignty and integrity of the countries of the Near East and the Middle East must not be threatened by coercion or penetration."

Here we have all that was ever said or promised in the famous article ten of the League of Nations covenant. A long controversy in the Senate was carried on over that pledge but today it is conveyed in presidential utterance and is accepted as American policy.

What it means, of course, is that the United States intends to enforce peace through the United Nations charter. It means that the United States will not only herself respect but will insist that other nations respect and preserve the territorial integrity and sovereign independence of members of the United Nations.

Mr. Truman apparently feels that at a critical time in world affairs he must not leave any doubt as to the American position. The United States is taking its stand on principle. Its sovereignties can be broken down in a mad scramble for the world's resources, there can only be introduced serious disorder. He added:

"It is easy to see how the Near East and Middle East could become an arena of intense rivalry between outside powers and how such rivalry might suddenly erupt into conflict."

Mr. Truman pointed out that the small nations with rich resources in a given area could neither collectively nor individually "withstand" powerful aggression. "Under the United Nations charter," the American government is pledged to fight against such aggression. These are the present-day commitments, though Congress in handling the extension of the draft act does not seem yet to have awakened to the implications of America's world role.

Train Service Poll

Deploping the indifferent reaction of Ulster county citizens toward the Chamber of Commerce's improved train service poll, Paul Bierwisch, of Kingston, who exhorts everyone to "get our coupon snipped out of the Freeman and mailed to the Chamber of Commerce."

Mr. Bierwisch's letter follows:
37 Sterling Street
Kingston, N. Y.
April 6, 1946

Editor, The Freeman:
The officials of the New York Central Railroad have shown a willingness to discuss the improvement of train service on the West Shore line.

We know this action is brought about by actual need. Many people have been complaining about the slowness and scarcity of trains on the West Shore, especially to Albany. But why then are they so indifferent towards the Chamber of Commerce's plea to them? Three cents and a few minutes of their time might secure them the service they desire.

Perhaps many feel we can get decent service out of Rhinecliff, now that we have a ferry. They might remember that only a few local trains stop at Rhinecliff.

But why go to Rhinecliff when we have a centrally located depot, saving us the trouble to take a bus or taxi to Rondout and then a ferry to Rhinecliff?

Let's all get our coupons snipped out of The Freeman and mailed to the Chamber of Commerce.

Sincerely,
PAUL BIERWISCH.

Republicans Will Move to Limit Tenure of Office

Washington, April 9 (P)—Republican leaders predicted early success today for their revived campaign to limit the term of any future President to six consecutive years. They expect to obtain 218

House signatures to a "discharge petition" and thus force a vote in time to submit the limitation proposal to the people in the form of a constitutional amendment before the 1948 Presidential election. "I don't think we'll have too much difficulty obtaining the necessary signatures," House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts told reporters. While Martin didn't say so, other Republicans said they expect the entire G.O.P. House membership of 191 to sign. That would leave only 27 Democratic signatures to be obtained. Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.) who filed the discharge petition yesterday told reporters that it apparently is the "only way in which we can obtain action." Since the constitution now fixes no limit on tenure, only a constitutional amendment could set one. Any amendment proposed would require ratification by the legislatures of 36 of the 48 states.

Administration Is Outspoken, Allows Only Partial Raise

Recent Pay Boost Does Not Justify Full Gain in Price, Board Declares

Washington, April 9 (P)—The administration underscored its "bulge-not-a-break" description of the new wage-price policy today by holding that only part of a recent pay boost justifies a price rise.

The ruling came from the National Wage Stabilization Board in a case involving an 18 cent an hour wage hike granted March 2 by 14 Detroit milk dealers. Specifically, the board declared that only 10 cents of the increase could be used by the dealers in applying to O.P.A. for price relief. The wage settlement ended a 10-day strike of approximately 1,200 C.I.O. United Dairy Workers.

As a result of yesterday's ruling—first of its kind—the dealers will be required either to absorb the eight-cent difference or apply to the Wage Board for permission to reduce their pay scale eight cents an hour.

Board Chairman W. Willard Wirtz pointed to the decision to dispel what he described as a general feeling that the government would approve for pricing purposes any pay hike paralleling the recent increases given in the steel, automobile and oil industries. These approved increases all have been in the neighborhood of 18 cents an hour.

In approving the 10-cent amount for a price increase request, the Board held that this sum "coincides with the increase agreed upon recently in another substantial food industry in Detroit" and is in line with "adjustments granted in the dairy industry in other metropolitan areas."

Under the wage-price policy, pay increases, to win Stabilization Board approval, must either follow a general pattern in a "related industry" or correct a gross inequity between related industries. The Board held neither situation applied in the dairy case.

Last Pensioner of War In 1812 Dies in Oregon

The National Tribune, Washington, D. C., notes the death March 12 in a Dallas, Oregon, hospital of Mrs. Esther Ann Morgan, 89, America's last pensioner from the War of 1812. Mrs. Morgan's father, John Hill, and three uncles fought with the New York militia during the 1812 conflict.

Partially blind, Mrs. Morgan was granted a $20 a month pension in 1927, by special Act of Congress. Mrs. Morgan's father was 70 years old at the time of her birth March 9, 1857, in Des Moines county, Iowa. She received nationwide publicity because of her unique position as the only surviving pensioner of the War of 1812, which ended 131 years ago.

Mrs. Morgan's father and his three brothers, Jedediah, Eben and Ludlow, received no pay for their services during the war and were required to supply their own clothing and equipment. Her father never received any pension, but was given three land grants in Missouri for his war services. Mrs. Morgan's grandfather, Jedediah Hill, fought in the Revolutionary War.

'Y' Goal Is Set At $16,210; Four Divisions Listed

Annual Fund Drive Will Begin Soon: Next Meeting Will Be April 15

The goal for the Y.M.C.A.'s annual Fund Drive has been set at $16,210, Dwight McEntee, Sr., general chairman, announced at last night's meeting with commanders of the four divisions that will conduct the campaign.

Patterned after the Army's organizational setup, the subscription drive will feature four divisions—representing each branch of the service—headed by a divisional commander.

Sherwood Davis has been appointed commander of the Army Division; Ray Mayone, Marine Division; N. Jansen Fowler, Navy; and Clarence Rowland, Jr., Air Corps. These four men represent their branch of service during World War II.

Harry Gray, Myron Hopper and Herbert V. Darrow represented ward leaders at last night's first general committee meeting. The complete list of ward leaders will be announced at the next general session, scheduled on Monday, April 15, at 7 p. m.

Recalling last year's highly successful campaign, General Chairman McEntee told the group that the Y.M.C.A. still has an obligation—to improve and ready the building for returning servicemen.

He challenged the men to put through this campaign in order to hire a full time boys' program director.

During the war, Mr. McEntee said, the boys had endured sacrifices in the loss of their rooms and program leader.

George Herbert DeKay, director of the Y. M. C. A. and president of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boys Scouts of America, urged the commanders to build a strong organization to achieve the 1946 goal. He outlined the number of captains and workers that would be required in each ward and expressed complete confidence that the task could be accomplished if volunteer workers would assist the division commanders.

Harold Clayton explained the immediate needs of the boys. He said that the sharp curtailment of the boys' program during the war imposed upon the committee an obligation to turn full attention to the boys in the post-war period. The boys' rooms needed repairs, Clayton said, and should be thrown open to all boys of the city. He stressed the important role the Y. M. C. A. can play in curbing juvenile delinquency.

Thomas Bohan, vice-commander of the Ulster County American Legion, reminded the committee of the splendid work the Y. M. C. A. has been doing for the man in uniform and the returning veteran.

The Y. M. Bohan said, "was the only place where the returning soldier could come and participate in physical activities free of charge. The Y was always open to them. Other organizations were doing all they could, but none had facilities and equipments such as the Y. M. C. A."

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 9—Elsie Oakley, Jr., has enlisted in the armed forces and is stationed in Maryland. Elsie before his enlistment was employed at Haver's Garage on Route 28.

Workmen of the reservoir maintenance force are making steady progress on the job of patching up the frost-riddled pavement of the north boulevard between Ashokan and West Hurley. Traffic has been slowed down considerably by the bad condition of the road, the worst spots being between Temple's Pond and the Glenford post-office.

Mrs. Emerson Colaw substituted as teacher of the Ashokan school during the illness of Harrison Gridley.

Ira D. Saxe, whose funeral was held Saturday afternoon at West Hurley, had a number of friends and relatives in this section of Olive. Mr. Saxe was an uncle by marriage of Mrs. Benjamin Van Stenburgh of Shokan.

Mrs. Maurice Somsen, whose marriage was announced in The Freeman, is a native of Ashokan. She resided previous to removing to Kingston several years ago. Mrs. Somsen is a daughter of the late John Davis.

Edward Wiederspeiler and family of New York arrived at their mountain road place last week. April 9, 1887, was the date of George M. Everett's auction sale in the old village of Shokan. Mr. Everett, who was a grandfather of Mrs. Loren Secor of Kingston, had recently retired from the general store business, having sold his store to Azarias Winchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Lukacs, new residents of Shokan, have erected an attractive sign at the Route 28 entrance to their driveway. The Lukacs are making a number of improvements to the former Martin Retting place in connection with their plans to open a summer school for boys and girls about June 1.

Mrs. Denis T. Lynch of New York has been spending a few days at her place near Tice Ten Eyck mountain.

Harvey Silkworth who died Friday in New York, had been a resident of Shokan for many years. Mr. Silkworth was born at Bushkill, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Silkworth; he worked as deliveryman for Matthews and North in pre-reservoir years and as a member of the section force on the relocated U. & D. railroad. Mr. Silkworth will be greatly missed in the village center where he made his home with the L. Luckert family.

Herman Wendt is having a well driven on the north boulevard lot

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, April 8—This week April 8 to April 13 is Public Health Week and the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee is holding a Tag Day on April 13. The purpose of Tag Day is to remind the public of the valuable work done by this committee and the effort to raise funds for the furtherance of this work. Tags and boxes have been distributed to the various sections of the town. It is hoped that the public will respond generously to this appeal. Articles from the Loan Chest will be displayed in St. Peter's Church hall, Stone Ridge, and the public is cordially invited to inspect them and to learn what is really available. There will be some member of the committee present from 2 to 4 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week.

Mrs. Charles C. Walden, Jr., donated a beautiful bride doll and made a complete trousseau for the benefit of St. Peter's Church. This same doll is now on exhibition at the Waldorf-Astoria during the paper manufacturer's convention and it is reported by Charles C. Walden, 3rd, that it is being admired by all delegates. Many donations have been made towards the doll for the benefit of St. Peter's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hansen of Laureton, L. I., were callers Thursday at the home of Mrs. Gutorm Nilsen. They are visiting with Mrs. Hansen's cousin, Miss Nellie Johnson of Atwood. Mrs. Hansen came to see her step-mother, Mrs. Peter Gutormsen, who is seriously ill at the Hackett Nursing Home, Kingston.

Mrs. Oswald Jacobsen spent the week-end in Brooklyn with her cousin, Miss Sigvarda Johnson.

Mrs. Herman Hansen of New York is visiting this week with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oskar Larsen.

Production Is Resumed

Stamford, Conn., April 8 (AP)—Production was resumed at Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., plant here today, almost five months to the day after the International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.) pulled about 2,700 members of two local unions from their jobs in a strike for a 30 per cent wage increase and union security. It was Connecticut's longest, most bitterly contested labor dispute since V-J Day. Under a new two-year contract, all workers will receive an increase of 12 1/2 cents an hour.

YOU'LL BE INTERESTED IN THIS STORE . . .

Good store lighting has long been the plan of many merchants. They know that good lighting is one of their most effective aids in selling goods.

However, the average merchant is faced with many problems where lighting is concerned. He cannot afford too much outlay for equipment; he must operate economically; equipment must be easy to clean and maintain since he must usually do the work himself.

The lighting recently installed in Ackerman & Herrick's store, 280 Fair Street, Kingston, takes the problems of the average merchant into account. It is outstanding for these reasons:

- Fixtures are new design—long, continuous lines of light which seem to reach out and pull customers into the store.
- Fixtures are easy to maintain. To clean or change lamps it is not necessary to remove extensive glassware. The lamps, being open, just need an occasional dusting.
- Plenty of switches. Lights may be used in various combinations giving any level of light at any hour.

STOREKEEPERS:

You are invited to inspect this store. You are also invited to avail yourself of the free planning service which this company offers. Our lighting engineers will gladly make a lighting plan of your store. This costs you nothing and places you under no obligation.

PUBLIC HEARING

The public will have an opportunity tonight to express its opinion on the installation of parking meters in the business sections of the city. The Traffic Control Committee of the Common Council will hold a public hearing on the question at 8 o'clock in the council chambers of the city hall.

Public hearings are designed to obtain reactions of the people to propositions affecting them. Here is a chance for an expression of your views.

When the committee is most interested in determining is what the public, or more specifically, the shopping public, thinks about the meters. It is hoped that the hearing will attract representatives of the public in sufficient numbers to get a comprehensive expression of opinion.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT

Together with the suggested campaign against speeding, there also should be an all-out drive to curb flagrant violations of traffic signs and signals in this city.

Now is the time to do it, before someone is killed or seriously injured.

The statutes apply to all motorists and one way to stop this threat to life and limb is strict enforcement.

The Newburgh News editorially states that the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce should cooperate with the Kingston C. of C. in its efforts to secure express service on the West Shore Railroad. Such an express would be well patronized, it is believed.

MAGIC WEAPONS

The most important minerals in the world are now Uranium and Thorium. They are worth far more than gold or any of the other metals—not so much for their intrinsic worth as for their military value. They are the metals from which the atomic bombs are made, and therefore cherished according to their accepted merits. No other known metals are capable of wreaking so much destruction. From present indications, if our world or any considerable parts of it are to be destroyed by human enterprise, they are the weapons that will do it. They won our last war for us, and have been respected and cherished accordingly.

There are different viewpoints about these tremendous weapons, now being stored secretly away in great quantities by American enterprise. Man, as is well known, is a fighting animal, and in case of peril he is generally willing to use what comes to his hand for defense. The Bomb is cherished accordingly, and will doubtless continue in its present high esteem until such time as man becomes civilized enough not to require such dreadful instruments.

Who would ever have expected an epoch-making event like the opening of the United Nations to take place in the Bronx?

TYPICAL NAZI

Another typical Nazi is revealed in the career of Dr. Karl Haushofer, whose theories of world politics profoundly influenced Hitler. In 1914, when Haushofer's life and the lives of other members of his family were threatened because he was suspected of disloyalty, he saved himself. How? By denouncing his own son to the Gestapo as having been implicated in the bomb plot against Hitler.

The more Nazis are examined, the more alike they appear. And the more despicable.

It is becoming too easy again to grow pessimistic about this foolish world. At the worst, it deserves another chance.

THAT REPUBLICAN CHAIRMANSHIP

Funny thing: Every organization in this country may elect its own president or chairman, or whatever you call him, except the Republican party. Whenever the Republicans want to organize themselves, all the outsiders butt in to tell them what to do. Even Mr. Truman who is a Democrat tells the Republicans what he thinks about their going off all on their own to pick a chairman. Maybe the Democrats ought to pick the Republican chairman. Or maybe they ought to clear it with Sidney.

There were three main Republican candidates for their chairman of the National Committee, John W. Hanes, a reputable banker, a convert from the Democratic party, a Southerner, a former Treasury official and an erstwhile supporter of Wendell Wilkie. There can be nothing against Johnny Hanes except that he did not have enough votes, which was natural as he never really belonged. Some of the Republicans suspected him of supporting Harold Stassen for the presidency and they accordingly voted against him, not because they do not like Hanes but because they do not want Stassen. For, as curious as it may be to New Deal columnists and such, Harold Stassen is more popular among those whose business it is to re-elect a Democrat than among those who wish to elect a Republican.

Another candidate was former Senator John A. Danaher of Connecticut, who is a very firm and competent Republican and a close follower of Governor Dewey of New York. Had Senator Danaher been elected to the Republican chairmanship, he would have been razed as violently as was Mr. Reece who was actually chosen. Mr. Danaher would have been accused of being a slave of Governor Dewey, which would have been unfair as Danaher got along in Connecticut before he became associated with Mr. Dewey's fortunes. Actually, he has been with the Republican National Committee under its former chairman, Herbert Brownell, and is generally well regarded.

B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee has for many years been a popular figure among Republicans. After all, it is strictly their business whom they choose to favor. He has been a member of Congress for a prolonged period and a curiously unique one, a Republican from Tennessee. He has naturally been on terms of friendship with Republican leaders, including Senator Robert Taft. He is not a New Dealer, a normal condition among Republicans. He was never a follower of Wendell Wilkie, which is not unnatural—Wilkie, a Democrat, having been put over on the Republicans by the ingenuities of a group of New York business men and bankers, most of whom would like to continue to manage the United States by proxy.

The only sour note came from Harold Stassen, who seems to be suffering from an anxiety complex. Not being a member of the National Committee, Stassen could not attend the meeting and although he said that while differing with Reece, he would help him in the 1946 congressional campaign, many Republicans wondered who asked him.

Politics is a profession in the United States and such citizens as serve on the Republican or Democratic National Committee are professional ladies and gentlemen who devote themselves constantly to the business of electing presidents, senators, congressmen, governors and such. They have an extraordinary keen insight into prospects and possibilities. They had little faith in 1936 and 1940 that a Republican could be elected President, no matter what they said in public. In 1944, they calculated that they might have a chance—but not too sure.

The Republicans now believe that in spite of P.A.C. and Sidney Hillman, they will carry the House of Representatives in 1946 and possibly the presidency in 1948. They are now concerned with 1946 principally. They are not worried about the presidency, which is too far off. It was for this reason that they chose, to the apparent annoyance of the New Dealers, a Republican regular—one who knows elections well, one who has managed to have himself elected often.

There is a little more to it than that. The chairman of the Republican National Committee does not select the Republican candidate for President. He is lucky if he is in speaking terms with the nominee when he is chosen. (Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

VETERANS' NEED HELP

I believe most of us who watched the progress of World War I, the examination of recruits; the training before going overseas; the equipment with which to attack and defend; the field, camp, and base hospitals; the care of returned patients; the plans for rehabilitation, believe that all these things were better done in World War I. Yet, notwithstanding all that was done and is being done for the sick and the well we learn that "one out of five returning veterans of World War II experiences real trouble in adjusting himself to civilian life." We learn this from a study made in a number of cities which appears in Survey Monthly, national journal of social work as a special edition entitled "From Veteran to Civilian." The study was made by Bradley Buell and Reginald Robinson, financed by the Grant Foundation.

Now if one in five is known to experience difficulty in adjusting himself there may be many others who are experiencing difficulty but because of circumstances and environment their difficulties are not known to others.

Wherein do the difficulties lie which interfere with the veteran's adjustment to civilian life?

The survey shows the trouble is due to a number of factors: financial instability, money, health, leisure time. Many of us who are health-minded will feel that if the veteran's health can be maintained at a high level he will be better able to fight his difficulties and meet his problems, but even good health will find it difficult when there is sickness in the home, poor housing, lack of money, insecurity of the job.

What can and should be done for these 1 in 5 veterans who are finding it difficult to adjust themselves?

Few if any of them want charity or bennies but what they do want is security, the object for which they fought, bled and died.

The governments are, or try to be, generous in helping the veteran to find himself, training for trades and professions—but more than this is needed.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Be Kind to Lady-Bugs in Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

SOON YOU will see them everywhere in your garden, shining red or yellow, black-spotted lady-bugs, and when you do be kind to them, for they are friends and allies of all gardeners.

Lady-bugs are usually seen running excitedly over the stems or under sides of leaves of plants, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. They search out and devour the aphids or plant-lice which drain the life sap of plants.

Green, yellow, red, or black aphids are not all eaten with equal gusto, for the lady-bugs of different species have cultivated different tastes for light or dark meat. The eater of green aphids has to be pretty hungry before it can relish a black one. But when they have found their favorite food it is surprising to see what little gourmands lady-bugs are. Aphid after aphid is seized, torn to bits and devoured.

There are a great many different species of lady-bugs, but unlike many other families, insect or human, they all have a strong family resemblance. They are all flat on the bottom and convex on the top; some are shaped like a half orange, others like the longitudinal half of a lemon. Some are red or yellow with black spots and some are black with red or yellow spots. In general the red and yellow lady-bugs feed on aphids, and the black ones feed on scale insects.

In was Australian lady-bugs imported into California in 1888 that checked the ravages of the cottony cushion-scale and saved the citrus industry of that state from destruction.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The installation of parking meters in Kingston has again become a live question, and the matter is now in the hands of the traffic control committee of the Common Council.

Those who favor parking meters claim it will increase the revenue received by the city, after the machines are paid for, and will relieve congestion of traffic, especially in the uptown business district.

It was only a few years ago, as I recall it, that a plan to relieve congestion on Wall street, between Main and North Front streets, was placed in operation by permitting only one-way traffic on those two blocks of Wall street.

That was the year I was driving an automobile and I found it a pleasure to drive through Wall street, with traffic moving in but one direction and with plenty of opportunity to park the car on either side of the street.

However, the plan was abandoned at the request, I believe of the merchants.

From the standpoint of the automobilist it would seem a desirable plan to again have Wall street a one-way street from Main to North Front street as well as Fair street, between the same points.

I doubt very much, however, if that plan will ever materialize owing to opposition on the part of some of the business men who believe it would hurt trade.

The fire board on April 27, 1927, appointed George D. Matthews of Union Hose Co., and Edward J. Noble of Rescue Hook and Ladder Company as members of the paid department. Both men assumed their duties on June 1 of that year.

The fire board at the meeting also appointed Dr. Chester B. Van Gaasbeek to serve as physician of the paid fire department.

Joseph L. Moore died on April 25, 1927, in his home on Cedar street. Mr. Moore for a number of years was employed as a gate-man at the Broadway railroad crossing.

The Rev. Henry Smith died in his home in Ritten on May 2, 1927, aged 66 years. He was a son of William Smith, who for years served as secretary of the Ulster County Bible Society and the Ulster County Sunday School Association.

At his death, his son, the Rev. Mr. Smith, took over the duties with the two associations, and served until his death.

Albert W. Van Tassel died in his home on St. James street on April 22, 1927. He was a brother of the late Sheriff William Thomas Van Tassel, and served as under sheriff during his brother's administration of the office of sheriff.

Mr. Van Tassel for a number of years was employed by the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co., and in later years was employed in the purchasing department of the Cornell Steamboat Co.

Fraternally he was a member of Kingston Lodge of Masons. He was also an active member of the First Dutch Reformed Church.

Germans Are Taken Ill

Liverpool, Eng., April 8 (AP)—Nearly 100 German prisoners of war became violently ill today after eating soap and drinking Diesel oil. Authorities said they would be turned over to the Russians or be assigned to work in the coal mines. All recovered. They were aboard the U. S. steamer Froberg Victory, carrying them from the United States to work on English farms.

The superstition that a broken mirror brings bad luck came from the fact that a shadow or reflection was considered part of the soul.

President Truman Compressed U.S. Foreign Policy Into Single Paragraph in His Chicago Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 9 — Seldom has anyone in the United States government expressed American policy toward the rest of the world in a single paragraph. President Truman has just done it in his Chicago speech. But it is doubtful whether many who read that particular excerpt realized that it is America's foreign policy reduced to a simple statement that carries far-reaching significance. Mr. Truman said:

"We recognize that the Soviet Union, the British Commonwealth, and other nations have important interests in the Far East. In return we expect recognition by them that we also have an interest in maintaining peace and security in that area. We expect understanding on their part that our objectives are dedicated to the pursuit of peace; and we shall expect them to pursue the same objectives."

The words "Near East" could be substituted, as could the word "Europe," in the above paragraph, and American policy would be the same. What the President of the United States has said, in effect, is that nations may think they have "interests" or "spheres of influence" in certain areas but the moment these come in conflict with the interests of other nations, the United States feels, under the United Nations charter, an obligation to see that such differences do not produce the frictions that lead to war.

What may not be fully understood outside the United States is that this country is committed to full participation in world affairs and cannot escape responsibility for settlements or disputes which, if allowed to go unsettled, could conceivably threaten the peace of the world.

Before World War 2, America's policy was to limit herself almost entirely to direct help in disputes that might arise over questions in this hemisphere, whether the disputants were Pan-American states or European or Asiatic countries. The interest of the United States in European disputes, on the other hand, was casual and only when American rights were attacked was it considered within the domain of American policy. This did not mean that the United States remained silent, for there were occasions when our "good offices" were extended to prevent war and bring about a peaceful solution.

The situation is wholly different now and the carefully phrased words of the President's speech reveal what a change has come since the late President Roosevelt made his historic commitment at the Yalta conference.

The United States today takes an active interest in any dispute in any portion of the world and in any situation which possibly bring about the kind of friction which might involve the world in war.

"No country, great or small," said the President in his Chicago speech, "has legitimate interests in the Near and Middle East which cannot be reconciled with the interests of other nations through the United Nations. The United Nations have a right to insist that the sovereignty and integrity of the countries of the Near East and the Middle East must not be threatened by coercion or penetration."

Here we have all that was ever said or promised in the famous article ten of the League of Nations covenant. A long controversy in the Senate was carried over that pledge but today it is conveyed in a presidential utterance and is accepted as American policy.

What it means, of course, is that the United States intends to enforce peace through the United Nations charter. It means that the United States will not only respect but will insist that other nations respect and preserve the territorial integrity and sovereign independence of members of the United Nations.

Mr. Truman apparently feels that at a critical time in world affairs he must not leave any doubt as to the American position. The United States is taking its stand on principle. If sovereignties can be broken down in a mad scramble for the world's resources, there can only be introduced serious disorder. He added:

"It is easy to see how the Near East and Middle East could become an arena of intense rivalry between outside powers and how such rivalry might suddenly erupt into conflict."

Mr. Truman pointed out that the small nations with rich resources in a given area are neither collectively nor individually "withstand powerful aggression." Under the United Nations charter, the American government is pledged to fight against such aggression. These are the present-day commitments, though Congress in handling the extension of the draft act does not seem yet to have awakened to the implications of America's world policy. ## Real McCoy

San Francisco, April 9 (AP)—When an American-born Chinese youth asked General Joseph Stilwell for his autograph, "Vinegar Joe" obliged—with his signature written in Chinese.

"Jeepers," the kid walked away muttering, "a four-star general, and I can't even read his writing."

Effective Kick

Chicago, April 9 (AP)—The horn in an automobile parked a half block from the Hyde Park police station, blew and blew and tempests of policemen flew as they exhausted every effort to halt the piercing blasts.

For nearly two hours Sergeant John Moroney was harassed by telephone calls from irate residents unable to sleep.

As police gave up, Cleveland Andrews, who lives near the station, appeared on the scene and walked to the car. He kicked a front wheel. The horn stopped.

Hot Cash

Decatur, Ill., April 9 (AP)—After a fire destroyed C. T. Durbin's house he poked around the ruins and found two pieces of iron pipe which had been part of his cash box and which had contained $2,400 in currency.

He took the pipes to a Decatur bank and some charred material in the pipes were sent to the federal treasury with the proper claim filed.

Treasury experts identified the charred bills and have authorized the bank to credit $2,400 to Durbin's account.

How About Dandelions?

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—The United Civic Committee has passed a resolution proposing a campaign to make the petunia the official flower of Buffalo.

"Petunias grow almost anywhere and at a minimum of cost," says William L. Kasting, president of the group. "Thus, many Buffalonians can join us in a campaign to plant petunias and greatly beautify our city."

Kenya Likes "Prefabs"

Lovely swains of Kenya, Africa, no longer will look for their dusky maidens in the shade of the sheltering palm. Rather, they will call upon them in prefabricated houses where the girls will have tiled roofs over their heads and wooden floors for their dancing feet. Mostly, the Kenya folks have lived thus far in huts made of grass or mud. But now, Nairobi reports, sample "prefabs" have been set up and have found favor. Native workers can put up a house in one day.

When the original draft of the U. S. Constitution was displayed at its sesquicentennial celebration in Philadelphia in 1937, it was insured for $500,000.

Republicans Will Move to Limit Tenure of Office

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Republican leaders predicted early success today for their revived campaign to limit the term of any future President to six consecutive years. They expect to obtain 218

House signatures to a "discharge petition" and thus force a vote in time to submit the limitation proposal to the people in the form of a constitutional amendment before the 1948 Presidential election. "I don't think we'll have too much difficulty obtaining the necessary signatures," House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts told reporters. While Martin didn't say so, other Republicans said they expect the entire G.O.P. House membership

Administration Is Outspoken, Allows Only Partial Raise

Recent Pay Boost Does Not Justify Full Gain in Price, Board Declares

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The administration underscored its "buckle-up-a-break" description of the new wage-price policy today by holding that only part of a recent pay boost justifies a price rise.

The ruling came from the National Wage Stabilization Board in a case involving an 18-cent an hour wage hike granted March 2 by 14 Detroit milk dealers. Specifically, the board declared that only 10 cents of the increase could be used by the dealers in applying to O.P.A. for price relief. The wage settlement ended a 10-day strike of approximately 1,200 C.I.O. United Dairy Workers.

As a result of yesterday's ruling—first of its kind—the dealers will be required either to absorb the eight-cent difference or apply to the Wage Board for permission to reduce their pay scale eight cents an hour.

Board Chairman W. Willard Wirtz pointed to the decision to dispel what he described as a general feeling that the government would approve for pricing purposes any pay hike paralleling the recent increases given in the steel, automobile and oil industries.

These approved increases all have been in the neighborhood of 15 cents an hour. In approving the 10-cent amount for a price increase request, the board held that this sum "coincides with the increase agreed upon recently in another substantial food industry in Detroit" and is in line with "adjustments granted in the dairy industry in other metropolitan areas."

Under the wage-price policy, pay increases, to win Stabilization Board approval, must either follow a general pattern in a "related industry" or correct a gross inequity between related industries. The board held neither situation applied in the dairy case.

Forty Are Treated At Smallpox and Diphtheria Clinic

Adults and Children Are Immunized, Vaccinated At Health Center Yesterday

Monday's clinic for immunization against diphtheria and vaccination for smallpox drew 40 Kingston residents, children and adults, to the Health Center on East O'Reilly street.

Dr. John F. Larkin, city health officer, reported that the attendance was the largest seen at a clinic in a long time.

Children were in the majority of those treated. Twenty-nine juveniles were immunized against diphtheria, and some of them were vaccinated for smallpox. The vaccinations in all, including children and adults, numbered 20.

The clinics are not new, Kingston having conducted them over a period of years to protect the health of children and grown-ups.

Although there are no cases of smallpox or diphtheria in this city, others of the nation and state have reported outbreaks. In order to keep Kingston's health slate clean, Dr. Larkin has been urging all to take advantage of the clinics. Judging from yesterday's turnout, his advice is being taken seriously by those concerned with protecting their health and that of their children.

IN THIS STORE . . .

Good store lighting has long been the plan of many merchants. They know that good lighting is one of their most effective aids in selling goods.

However, the average merchant is faced with many problems where lighting is concerned. He cannot afford too much outlay for equipment; he must operate economically; equipment must be easy to clean and maintain since he must usually do the work himself.

The lighting recently installed in Ackerman & Herrick's store, 280 Fair Street, Kingston, takes the problems of the average merchant into account. It is outstanding for these reasons:

- Fixtures are new design—long, continuous lines of light which seem to reach out and pull customers into the store.
- Fixtures are easy to maintain. To clean or change lamps it is not necessary to remove extensive glassware. The lamps, being open, just need an occasional dusting.
- Plenty of switches. Lights may be used in various combinations giving any level of light at any hour.

STOREKEEPERS:

You are invited to inspect this store. You are also invited to avail yourself of the free planning service which this company offers. Our lighting engineers will gladly make a lighting plan of your store. This costs you nothing and places you under no obligation.

Jackson Declares Anti-Semitism Is Heard in Trials

Rejected 'Rubbish' Turns Up in Print, Chief Prosecutor Says and Shows Evidence

Nuernberg, April 9 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, charged before the International Military Tribunal today that the defense was attempting to "disseminate anti-Semitic propaganda" through the war crimes trial and had committed a "flagrant case of contempt of court."

Jackson based his charges on an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for defendant Alfred Rosenberg. Jackson contended the material, which he described as "violently anti-Semitic and irrelevant rubbish" had been submitted to the printers by Rosenberg's counsel after it had been rejected by the tribunal.

Jackson's charges brought an immediate and sharp reaction from defense counsel, whose spokesmen, tall, white-haired Dr. Rudolf Dix, replied with a suggestion that Jackson retract.

"I stand on the facts," Jackson rejoined, and exhibited to the tribunal stenciled copies of the rejected material.

Jackson read to the tribunal excerpts from Rosenberg's book of documentary evidence which characterized Jews as a "bastard population x x x, arrogant, shrewd and crooked."

"The United States cannot print and disseminate to the press this violent anti-Semitism," Jackson declared. "The defense believes we are here to try the issue of the causes of anti-Semitism, with this tribunal as the sounding board. That is wrong. The issue is not Rosenberg's philosophy, but we are charging the murder of four to five million Jews."

The U. S. prosecutor proposed shutting off printer facilities to the defense.

Rosenberg's counsel contended that the anti-Semitic passages read by Jackson were quotations from a French philosopher and were included in the printing order "by mistake."

Farm-Home Train Visits Kingston

file through the train. Because of the manner in which the exhibits were laid out, the spectators had to go through the various cars in single file.

Mayor William F. Edelmuth extended the official greetings of the city of Kingston in a brief ceremony, after which Mrs. W. A. Warren, of Hurley, president of the combined Farm and Home Bureau clubs conducted an official tour through the train for the visiting dignitaries.

The official group, in addition to Mrs. Warren, Mayor Edelmuth and Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Ladlaw, included Paul Hoff, Ithaca Deputy Rural Agricultural Engineering head of Cornell University; E. J. Leenhoudts, of Geneva, General Agricultural Agent of the New York Central lines; M. C. Bond, of the Department of Agricultural Economics; James Knapp, of the Publications Office of the State College of Agriculture and a number of other Cornell University specialists.

The attractive displays covered every phase of farming, highlighting the latest developments in farm and home research. Among the top attractions were a newly developed truck-mounted buck-rake and a long hay blower.

The agronomy exhibit in the third car featured growing plots of hay and pasture mixtures, a full-sized barn bale elevator and two models of barn hay curing systems.

The fourth car featured primarily modern dairy farming plans and methods. Included were demonstrations in the ventilation of barns, the use of DDT, barn arrangement for labor efficiency in doing chores and labor-saving equipment. Another feature was a model milk house, showing arrangements of sinks, hot water heater, equipment and other details for saving time and labor. Two model layouts depicted the average characteristics of many dairy farms, and an improved layout offered as a goal. This was an actual illustration of a farmer's problems.

On display in the fifth car were exhibits on vegetable production. Recent developments include weed sprays, new varieties of potatoes, fertilizer placement, sprout inhibitors; also quick-freezing methods with emphasis on home-made units, selection of varieties of food for freezing, preparations, etc.

The sixth coach was devoted to the poultry industry and featured labor saving pen arrangements, automatic watering, poultry house ventilation, new poultry equipment and egg handling. A number of exhibits to demonstrate ways to increase labor efficiency in home work centers, such as the kitchen, sewing room, etc. were on display in car No. 7.

The final car emphasized a rural housing exhibit, suggesting important points in the repair and remodeling of farm homes, and suggestions for new construction. It showed a model of a farm house as it now stands, and another model showing how it could be improved.

Statistics furnished at the exhibit pointed out that one third of the farm houses in New York State were built before the Civil War, and nearly 75 per cent before 1900. The 1940 census indicated that 25 per cent of all farm houses were in need of major repairs, compared to seven per cent of urban dwellings.

Rural housing research first got underway at Cornell University in 1944, when the Legislature appropriated $10,000 for such a study. Because of the scarcity of building materials, equipment and labor, farm families are urged to do only urgent construction at the present time.

The rural housing research staff at Cornell, however, is getting together a set of basic house plans.

April Snowfall Comes To Kingston Monday

Kingstonians were treated to a variety of weather Monday evening when snow and rain fell in the city, and the lowest temperature recorded during the night by the official city thermometer at the city hall was 37 degrees.

Rain began falling shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was followed by a fall of heavy, soggy snow that formed nearly an inch of slush on the sidewalks. The snow was followed by another fall of rain, which washed away the snow that had fallen.

Temperatures in the city yesterday ranged from a low of 29 to a high of 55 degrees.

Marshall, Stark Deny Knowing of Summons in '41

Both Say They Had Not Been Told of Jap Message Until December 7

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark said today they knew nothing of any attempts to summon them to the White House for a war conference with the late President Roosevelt on the eve of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Both the former Army chief of staff and former chief of naval operations also reiterated before a Senate-House Committee that they had not seen or been told about a final Japanese diplomatic message until the morning of the attack, December 7, 1941.

Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, on duty at the White House the night of December 6, has testified previously that when 13 parts of the 14-part message were delivered to Mr. Roosevelt that night he exclaimed, "This means war."

Stark told the committee today that if he had known about any such interpretation of the message by the President he would have gone into action immediately. Despite Schulz' testimony that the White House attempted to reach him the night of December 6 and found that he was at a local theatre, Stark said he was not informed of any such attempt.

Marshall insisted that he knew nothing of any attempt to reach him until the next morning, when he received a call from the War Department that an important message was in and rushed to his office.

Oakland, Calif., April 9 (AP)—A search party early today found the body of one of two officers the Army reported killed in the crash of an Army twin-engine plane yesterday on Mount Diablo.

Shortly before noon yesterday the light transport, capable of carrying five passengers but with only two officers aboard, took off from Hamilton Field bound for Los Angeles on a routine flight.

Names of the dead were withheld.

Hudson Woman, 22 Dies; Ex-Sailor Held as Assailant

Betty Crosier Had Skull Fracture and Internal Injuries; Were Seen Sunday

Hudson, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—A 22-year-old woman, found battered and unconscious in an alley, died today and a discharged sailor was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

The woman, Mrs. Betty Crosier, died in Hudson City Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Charles Donnelly, 25-year-old Navy veteran and father of two children, was arraigned before City Judge Thomas Kennedy on a manslaughter charge. He waived grand jury action.

Police said Mrs. Crosier, wife of Al Crosier of Troy and daughter of a Hudson plumbing contractor, was found about 4 a. m. Sunday in an alleyway, her face battered almost beyond recognition. A police said that the woman was seen leaving a restaurant early Sunday morning.

Patrolman Arthur Finch said Donnelly was first taken into custody Sunday afternoon, and after questioning was released.

Some of his clothing, which police said he washed Sunday afternoon in his home, was given a laboratory examination, and he was taken into custody again yesterday.

Police Chief Thomas L. Connors said Donnelly, an employee of a textile mill here, was seen leaving the restaurant in company with Mrs. Crosier. He said the woman and her husband had been separated for several years.

Mrs. Crosier's body, Connors said, was so badly disfigured that her condition could have resulted only from a beating.

An inquest will be conducted by Columbia County Coroner Jonas F. Potts.

Chief Connors stated that Donnelly had signed a statement admitting beating the woman after she allegedly had asked him for money in the restaurant. Donnelly and Mrs. Crosier had been friendly for some time, Connors said.

Forty Are Treated At Smallpox and Diphtheria Clinic

Adults and Children Are Immunized, Vaccinated At Health Center Yesterday

Monday's clinic for immunization against diphtheria and vaccination for smallpox drew 40 Kingston residents, children and adults, to the Health Center on East O'Reilly street.

Dr. John F. Larkin, city health officer, reported that the attendance was the largest seen at a city clinic in a long time.

Children were in the majority of those treated. Twenty-nine juveniles were immunized against diphtheria, and some of them were vaccinated for smallpox. The vaccinations in all, including children and adults, numbered 20.

The clinics are not new, Kingston having conducted them over a period of years to protect the health of children and grown-ups. Although there are no cases of smallpox or diphtheria in this city, officers of the nation and state have reported outbreaks. In order to keep Kingston's health state clean, Dr. Larkin has been urging all to take advantage of the clinics, judging from yesterday's turnout, his advice is being taken seriously by those concerned with protecting their health and that of their children.

Jackson Declares
Anti-Semitism Is Heard in Trials

Rejected 'Rubbish' Turns
Up in Print, Chief
Prosecutor Says and Shows Evidence

Nuernberg, April 9 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, charged before the International Military Tribunal today that the defense was attempting to "disseminate anti-Semitic propaganda" through the war crimes trial and had committed a "flagrant case of contempt of court."

Jackson based his charges on an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for defendant Alfred Rosenberg. Jackson contended the material, which he described as "violently anti-Semitic and irrelevant rubbish," had been submitted to the printers by Rosenberg's counsel after it had been rejected by the tribunal.

Jackson's charges brought an immediate and sharp reaction from defense counsel, whose spokesmen, tall, white-haired Dr. Rudolf Dix, replied with a suggestion that Jackson retract. "I stand on the facts," Jackson rejoined, and exhibited to the tribunal stenciled copies of the rejected material.

Jackson read to the tribunal excerpts from Rosenberg's book of documentary evidence which characterized Jews as a "bastard population x x x, arrogant, shrewd and crooked."

"The United States cannot print and disseminate to the press this violent anti-Semitism," Jackson declared. "The defense believes we are here to try the issue of the causes of anti-Semitism, with this tribunal as the sounding board. That is wrong. The issue is not Rosenberg's philosophy, but we are charging the murder of four to five million Jews."

The U. S. prosecutor proposed shutting off printer facilities to the defense.

Rosenberg's counsel contended that the anti-Semitic passages read by Jackson were quotations from a French philosopher and were included in the printing order "by mistake."

Marshall, Stark
Deny Knowing of Summons in '41

Both Say They Had Not
Been Told of Jap
Message Until December 7

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark said today they knew nothing of any attempts to summon them to the White House for a war conference with the late President Roosevelt on the eve of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Both the former Army chief of staff and former chief of naval operations also reiterated before a Senate House Committee that they had not seen or been told about a final Japanese diplomatic message until the morning of the attack, December 7, 1941.

Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, on duty at the White House the night of December 6, has testified previously that when 13 parts of the 14-part message were delivered to Mr. Roosevelt that night he exclaimed, "This means war."

Stark told the committee today that if he had known about any such interpretation of the message by the President he would have gone into action immediately.

Despite Schulz' testimony that the White House attempted to reach him the night of December 6 and found that he was at a local theatre, Stark said he was not informed of any such attempt.

Marshall insisted that he knew nothing of any attempt to reach him until the next morning, when he received a call from the War Department that an important message was in and rushed to his office.

Search Party Finds
Dead Flier's Body

Oakland, Calif., April 9 (AP)—A search party early today found the body of one of two officers the Army reported killed in the crash of an Army twin-engine plane yesterday on Mount Diablo.

The wrecked plane, a C-45, was first sighted by a search plane on the northeast slope of the 3,849-foot peak about 10 miles east of here after an extensive aerial search.

Shortly before noon yesterday the light transport, capable of carrying five passengers but with only two officers aboard, took off from Hamilton Field bound for Los Angeles on a routine flight.

Names of the dead were withheld.

Some for new houses and some to show various improvements on typical New York State farm houses.

The rural housing research staff at Cornell, however, is getting together a set of basic house plans.

Statistics furnished at the exhibit pointed out that one third of the farm houses in New York State were built before the Civil War, and nearly 75 per cent before 1900. The 1940 census indicated that 25 per cent of all farm houses were in need of major repairs, compared to seven per cent of urban dwellings.

Rural housing research first got underway at Cornell University in 1944, when the Legislature appropriated $100,000 for such a study. Because of the scarcity of building materials, equipment and labor, farm families are urged to do only urgent construction at the present time.

The rural housing research staff at Cornell, however, is getting together a set of basic house plans.

Members of the C. of C. Transportation Committee are arranging an appointment with West Shore officials. It is important that results of this poll be received at the Chamber of Commerce office before April 10th.

Tatsuta Reports
Advice to Yanks
Facing Execution

Shanghai, April 9 (AP)—Capt. Sotajiro Tatsuta, commander of the firing squad which executed three Doolittle airmen here in 1942, described today how he strapped the Americans to crosses and then urged them to take heart as they were dying "as Christ did."

"I told them," Tatsuta testified at his War Crimes trial before an American military commission, "Christ died on the cross and they must die on the cross. When you die on the cross you will be honored as gods."

Tatsuta said the Americans made no final statement, other than a request that their families be told they died bravely.

Earlier, Lt. Gen. Shigeru Kawada, former commander of the 13th Japanese Army and top ranking officer among the four trial defendants, repeated his contention that responsibility for the executions lay in Tokyo and he was powerless to rescue the punishments.

Families Will Sail
For Europe April 18

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The first families to join American army troops in Europe will sail from New York aboard the army transport, the Thomas H. Barry, on April 18.

Announcing this today, the War Department said the vessel will be followed at four day intervals by the Henry Gibbins and the George W. Goethals.

A total of 1,446 women and children are scheduled to leave this first consignment. Among them will be the wives of Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Deputy Military Commander in Germany, and Gen. Mark W. Clark, head of military government in Austria. Only 21 enlisted men applied for transportation for their wives to go over in April.

All three ships are bound for Bremerhaven, Germany.

Hudson Woman, 22
Dies; Ex-Sailor
Held as Assailant

Betty Crosier Had Skull
Fracture and Internal Injuries; Were Seen Sunday

Hudson, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—A 22-year-old woman, found battered and unconscious in an alley, died today and a discharged sailor was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

The woman, Mrs. Betty Crosier, died in Hudson City Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Charles Donnelly, 25-year-old Navy veteran and father of two children, was arraigned before City Judge Thomas Kennedy on a manslaughter charge. He waived examination and was held for grand jury action.

Police said Mrs. Crosier, wife of Al Crosier of Troy and daughter of a Hudson plumbing contractor, was found about 4 a. m. Sunday in an alleyway, her face battered almost beyond recognition.

Police said that the woman was seen leaving a restaurant early Sunday morning.

Patrolman Arthur Finch said Donnelly was first taken into custody Sunday afternoon, and after questioning was released.

Some of his clothing, which police said he washed Sunday afternoon in his home, was given a laboratory examination, and he was taken into custody again yesterday.

Police Chief Thomas L. Connors said Donnelly, an employee of a textile mill here, was seen leaving the restaurant in company with Mrs. Crosier. He said the woman and her husband had been separated for several years.

Mrs. Crosier's body, Connors said, was so badly disfigured that her condition could have resulted only from a beating.

An inquest will be conducted by Columbia County Coroner Jonas F. Potts.

Chief Connors stated that Donnelly had signed a statement admitting beating the woman after she allegedly had asked him for money in the restaurant. Donnelly and Mrs. Crosier had been friendly for some time, Connors said.

Action Is Settled
In Real Estate
Commission Case

The action for commission on sale of real estate which was commenced in county court Monday afternoon was settled at the opening of court today. Settlement of the Joseph S. Leotta vs. Florence C. Celluch action caused court to be recessed until Thursday at 10 o'clock. William A. Kaercher was attorney for plaintiff and Peter H. Harp for defendant.

No. 14, Joseph Penzato against Raymond Ambrosino, negligence, was set down for April 22. No. 10, an action for breach of contract brought by Nathan and Sarah Meisel against Sam Backinoff was announced settled. Koopman and Koopman for plaintiff and Lounsbury and Lounsbury for defendant.

Of the 36 extra jurors drawn, 14 were sworn for service.

An application was made by Elmer N. Nathan, attorney for John Gruenwald, asking that the payments toward the support of Gruenwald's family be reduced from $12 to $7.50 since a son has recently enlisted in the navy and was now supporting himself. Judge Cashin reduced the amount of the weekly payments to $7.50 on consent of District Attorney Louis Bruhn.

Yesterday Mr. Lutzin and Secretary Donald Williams of the Chamber of Commerce held an interview with the officials of the furniture company, and at that time were granted permission to use the park area, until the building program of the company starts.

Barmann Park was purchased several months ago by the Pilgrim Furniture Co., who plan to erect a modern plant on the site as soon as building materials are available.

Until such time as construction work on the new building is commenced the city's recreation department plans to use the area for grade school baseball, the city Softball League and other activities of the recreation department.
